WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (IHT). -Secretary of State William P. Rogers, calling Senate defeat of the foreign-aid bill a "very seri-ous hlow" that could weaken both U.S. foreign policy and President Nixon's negotiating powers, urged Congress today to repair quickly "Ibe damage that bas been done."

The secretary, who said he favored quick passage of a resolu-tion continuing the aid program, reported that "reaction through-out the world has been extremely adverse and it has been very dif-ficult to explain to our friends ond allies."

Mr. Rogers thus stepped up the administration drive io press Congress into continuing the aid program. He spoke with reporters after an hour-long meeting with Mr. Nixon at the White House.

Bishops' Synod Starts Voting On Celibacy, Married Priests

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 2 (UPI). for a new 12-member Permanent -Delegates to the Synod of Bishops met tonight to start secret voting on problems of the Catholic priesthood.

Vntican spokesmen said results will become public Saturday. More than 300 churchmen were voting tonight on a 29-page Latin-language document con-taining 19 points on the doctrinal and practical aspects of the priesthood.

The document was hammered out in 19 days of general debate and committee meetings. When it was distributed last Saturday, prelates were ordered to keep it secret even from their secretarics.

However, a description of the document given by Vatican spokesmen indicated that its tone was highly conservative on such issues as priestly celibacy and even the proposed ordination of elderly married men into the priesthood.

Other subjects include the possible participation of priests in politics or non-church employment. The bishops also voted tonight

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (AP) .--Environmentalists looked to a federal appeals court today as probably their last hope in a hattle to halt detonation of a nuclear warhead 6.000 feet underground on the isolated Alaskan island of Amchitka.

The Atomic Energy Commis-sion says the hiast, equal to five million tons of TNT, will go off no earlier than Friday. Lawyers for the Committee for Nuclear Responsibility and six other groups planned to ask the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington for a preliminary injunction halting the explosion. District Court Judge George L.

Hart jr. rejected their arguments yesterday that the explosion might kick off earthquakes and tidal waves, kill Alaskan and Canadian wildlife or scatter radio-active waste into the air. He turned down their request to temporarily prohibit the blast, which is the final test of the fivemegaton warhead for the new Spartan anti-ballistic missile system.

After a week of tangled legal disputes, Judge Hart also ordered the Justice Department to turn over to David Sive, a lawyer for the environmentalists, secret government documents, which, Mr. Sive says, confirm environmental hazards of the hlast.

Mr. Sive says that the government suppressed conclusions from four government agencies that the blast is dengerous. Under the National Environmentai Policy Act of 1969, the government is required to consider the environmental consequences of anything it does and include them in an impact statement.

The appeals court already has turned down one request for a stay of the test.

Physics, Chemistry Prizes to Briton, Canadian

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 2 (Reu-ters1.-Prof. Dennis Gabor, 71, British pioneer of three-dimensional imagery, and Canadian scientist Gerhard Herzberg, 66, today were awarded the Nobel Prizes for physics and chemistry. The prizes-the last of the 1971 Nobel series-are each worth $86,400. Prof. Gabor, a native of Hungary who is now senior research fellow at the Imperial College of Science and Technology in London, received the physics oward for his invention and development of the so-called holographic method. Holography is a form of pho-tography by which three-dimenthe academy here said that holography gave a sort of code con-taining all information about the details of an object and its position in space.

Dr. Gabor, whose most important papers on the method date from 1948, 1949 and 1952, called this form of registration a hologram.

The scientist clearly foresaw and indicated three-dimensional images and his methods have now found applications in many fields of physics and technology, the academy added.

Mr. Laird, who left today for South Vietnam to assess the U.S. pullout in preparation for Mr. Nixon's promised mid-month an-nouncement of further troop withdrawals, said again today that the aid program made Viet-namization possible. The steady return home of American troops, he told newsmen, "has been made possible through the application of military assistance and foreign military sales." He said he was confident Congress would resurrect the aid program. Mr. Laird said that the aid program had permitted removal of 342,000 U.S. troops from Vietnam since 1969 under the administration's Vietnamization program to shift the burden of defense to the Salgon government. But Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, who opposes the aid program in its present form, dismissed Mr. Laird's warnings as merely administration rhetoric. The Montana Democrat caid that there was no need for Con-gress to act hastily to revive the aid program, now scheduled to expire Nov. 15. Sen. Mansfield said the Agency for International Development already has more than $4 billion of past appropriations that it can use to keep the program going and pay staff salaries until Congress drastically redrafts the whole assistance program in a new bill. The State Department disputed the Mansfield contention, say-ing that nearly all of the $4.7 biltion in previously voted funds has been committed. Spokesman Charles W. Bray said the aid agency would bave to discharge 8,472 employees in the U.S. and abroad as of Nov. 15 unless action continuing the program was taken soon, About a third of these were foreign nationals, he said.

Labor Movement ROME, Nov. 3 (NYT) .- A new national Catholic labor movement was founded here yesterday following a break with an association that Pope Paul himself helped to create and later rejected.

The splinter association, called the Christian Workers Movement, appears to be more conservative and closer to the Roman Catholic Church than the original Christian Workers' Association.

Its basic aim is to "rediscover the authentic roots of social Christendom," the group's chairman, Carlo Borrini, said yesterday.

Founding members of the new movement are about 50,000 workers from all over Italy who have been gradually leaving the 7" .-000-member association that was founded 25 years ago with the support of Msgr. Giovanni Battista Montini, who is now Pope Paul VI.

Msgr. Montini was at the time an aide to the late Pope Pins XII and supported a church-affillated initiative that was committed to the solution of social

Purely American

When the wage-price freezo was first announced Aug. 15, federal officials gave serious consideration to extending it to the 142,000 non-American em-ployees. But they were told that, balance of payments notwithstanding, it would be more trouble than it was worth to withhold wage increases due. For that reason, the U.S. government decided that the freeze would be nurely an American sacrifice.

Foreigners working for the U.S. government in this country, however, have had wages frozen like those of their American counterparts.

In-grade pay raises, which have been frozen since mid-August, will be payable when Phase 1 of the freeze is lifted sometime this month. But none of those payments will be retroactive. Employees who become eligible for them Aug. 15 will get paid only for that day. The nearly three months in between will, in effect, be money lost.

Fewer than 100 foreign nationals working overseas for the Unit-States earn more than $13,-000 a year, and only n dozen get more than $18,500. But whatever their salary, they have received increases due them.

A pay raise of around 6 percent had been scheduled for the 13 million government employees here and overseas on Jan. 1 That rise has been delayed unthi next July, although in-grade increases will be restarted sometime this mooth.

Meanwhile, union officials have little hope that Congress will approve a bill by Sen. Hiram Fong, R., Hawali, that would permit some sort of government pay rise in February. Sen. Fong intro

In August, Mr. Nixon said grade creep, or escalation, had become a serious problem. His directive, transmitted through the Office of Management and Budget, requires that it be stopped, and reversed over the next two years.

Agencies have been given a complicated set of formulas to determine what sort of cuts they must make. In agencies where the average grade had jumped dramatically cince 1969, the cutbacks are sharpert. The government estimates that the "average" employee now makes around $9,400 a year in the median GS 8.1 grade.

New Directions in Foreign Aid

It is evident from reports emanating from Monday's closed-door meeting of the Foreign Relations Committee that members are having second thoughts on the Senate's rash vote to kill the foreign aid authorization hill. But it is equally apparent that there is nothing approaching agreement on the new directions foreign aid must take in order to muster adequate support in the Congress.

Sen. Fulbright and others are talking in terms of stop-gap legislation that would emphasize humanitarian programs-particularly those administered hy international institutions-and greatly reduce the military component of aid, which accounts for more than half of the administration's foreign assistance package. There is merit in this approach, but it is doubtful whether a bill tailored to Mr. Fulbright's exacting requirements could command a majority at this time, especially in view of the support the administration was able to rally behind Its military proposals before Friday's final negative vote.

It would be equally unrealistic for the administration to try now to ram the foreign aid bill through the Senate in anything like its present form. Although it was not the only factor by any means, an important component of the administration's defeat on the ald hill was congressional and nationai disiliuslonment with presidential policies involving heavy military support for authoritarian governments, particularly in Southeast Asia. Unless there is some revision of these policies, and of the aid requests that are designed to support them, there is little hope for rebuilding a congressional consensus in support of a broad foreign pity in this performance. assistance program, even with the sweeping reorganization proposed last year by the Peterson Commission.

A period of hard bargaining is ahead in which both the President and his congressional critics will have to make concessions. In the meantime, to prevent a national disgrace from turning into an international disaster, it is essential that Congress act promptly to keep the foreign aid machinery intact through another continuing resolntion, extending the aid program at current levels beyond the Nov. 15 expiration date. In view of the depth of current disagreements, such an extension should allow at least 90 days for tempers to cool and for thonghtful reappraisal.

There is also need for prompt action to provide supplemental funds, as already requested by the administration, to help care for the nine million or more Pakistani refugees. There surely can be no quarrel over this urgent humanitarian need.

In reconsidering foreign aid, it would be helpful if both Congress and the administration disabused themselves of a myth that has been irresponsibly fostered lately by both the President and some of AID's congressional critics-the notion that the United States is bearing more than its share of the international development burden rightly assumed by the "have" nations for sharing with the "have nots."

Although the United States is still the largest contributor in absolute terms to overseas development programs, the U.S. contribution measured in terms of ability to pay-aid as a percentage of Gross National Product—ranks 12th among the 16 aid-donor nations. There is no place for pride or self-

THE NEW YORK TIMES.

Mrs. Gandhi's Visit

Mrs. Gandhi's arrival gives President Nixon the chance to get Indian-American relations out of the tailspin they've been in since the United States began condoning, if not quite endorsing, Pakistan's expulsion of some nine million refugees into Indiaa movement of people and misery, by the way, which has made war talk in the subcontinent ring louder than It has for years. That Indian-American relations are in a tailspin is apparent. The governments are all but openly snapping at each other and, at least on the Indian side, popular support for continuing a previously deep and friendly association has diminished sharply. This can only disturb those who helieve that a good relationship between the world's strongest democracy and the largest is maddening symbol of American favor for Pakistan.

Secondly, Mrs. Gandhl deserves American assurance that the Ald India Consortium will treat Indla's refugee load not merely as a costiy relief burden in itself but as a heavy drag on the country's whole economic development. Pakistan declared a moratorium on its debts; the United States acquiesced. Does fairness not argue that India should be "rewarded" for continuing to pay its debts on schedule? .

Finally, Mr. Nixon has got to do some sympathetic listening. His own aides seem to have informed him that the humanitarian crisis on the subcontinent arises essentially from the general condition of poverty - and from last year's cyclone, and that the political crisis is owed to India's aid and encouragement to the Bengall insurgents. Mrs. Gandhi will he able to offer a perspective closer to reality-namely, that the humanitarian and political disasters alike are chiefly of the Pakistan government's own making and that their resolution will require the kind of changes in Pakistani policy which only American urging can help bring about.

China-watching is an arcane and uncertain metier. Nevertheiess, China-watchers, although clusions, start their analyses of the current situation with the strange events of Sept. 12-13: These touched off separate but contemporaneous chains of military and political events that almost certainly have not finished.

Nevertheless, Peking's agreement to receive Nixon may have revived old quarrels. There is speculation that the far left complains that China risks giving the appearance of ending its battle against materialism, abandoning its revolutionary line and cooling off on Vietnam,

Since Choo is involved in the Nixon visit far more than any other Chinese, his reputation is at stake. He must prove China will gain from the affair. He was pleased to be able to demonstrate that, since announcement of the President's trip, China has been

PRINCETON, N.J.-Anybody in- in a detailed paper p terested in the cooling national temperature should examing the conference on the FBI which took place here in Princeton last weekend. For what shaped up as an exercise in "radicalchic" attack turned out to have a story line a good deal less pre-

At the outset to be sure, there was plenty of uncritical anti-Hooveriam at work. Nixon's Peking Visit

 \mathbb{R}^{n}

The declarations of Mr. Nixon's adviser indicate that preparations for the presidential visit to China are more difficult than expected. Mr. Nixon was generally expected to go to Peking before the end of the year. Before leaving for the Chinese capital, Mr. Kissinger had moreover asserted that the date of the Nixon visit would be announced "shortly after" his return. He has also shown caution on the results to be expected from the visit. The Peking talks, he said, will probably not soive "most of the problems" between the two countries. According to Mr. Kissinger, the conversations will deal only with bilateral problems. The Sino-Soviet conflict and the war in Vietnam will not be discussed.

-From Le Monde (Paris).

American Aid

The argument that aid is necessary to American foreign policy conflicts with the growing American conviction that those who said one could not buy friendships were right. The problem is not so simple. Much American aid has produced, not bought, invaluable good will and stability because it has done demonstrable economic and social good-though nearly always in countries which had governments and social structures (like the heneficiaries of the Marshall Plan) capable of using it, and so already well disposed to Western liberalism.

Of the 16 main donor countries, the United States now ranks 12th in scale of giving. Development aid in 1949 was nearly 3 percent of the American Gross National Productnow it is one-third of 1 percent, according to Mr. McNamara. It can hardly be allowed to fall to nil. But the Senate's warning had better be taken seriously in the wider context.

-From the Times (London).

Britain and Europe

The solid House of Commons majority for British membership in the Common Market is more than just testimony to the brilliant tactics and dogged policy with which Prime Minister Heath brought about this decision against unfavorable circumstances. It is more than just a reaction to the miscalculated opportunism of the Socialist opposition, which will cost its leader Wilson and other Labor politicians considerable ioss of prestige and authority.

Behind Britain's "turning to Europe" is an unequivocal political will. England wishes to form its future within the European context-that is, it wishes to have a hand in forming Europe. For centuries it was a guideline of London's policy to prevent the domination of any single superior power on the Continent. This maxim has lost pone of its timeliness despite the fact that one of its motives, the empire of a maritime power. is no more and that England is now binding itself to Europe instead of remaining apart from it. Europe needs this policy and this guideline.

The Jet Crash

NEW YORK .- When Henry Kis-On that date, probably at night, a British-made Trident jet of the Chinese civilian airline crashed deep inside the Outer Mongolian People's Republic, apparently due to an accident, not an attack.

It was not a regular scheduled flight and, although a Trident can hold well over 100 passengers plus crew, only nine bodies were found in the wreckage. They were re-portedly those of rather young people, including one woman. Mongolia protested the violation of its air space and Peking apologized through its embassy there.

Since China has few Tridents it is apparent the persons aboard must have had considerable influence to gain access to the aircraft. One theory is that they commandeered the plane in order to escape after an unsuccessful conspiracy. There had been reports of internal fighting in China prior to aod coincidental with that time, and the three armedservices chiefs of staff have since disappeared from public view or mention in their country. The Communist party had been trying to re-establish its authority following the Cultural Revolution, during which Mao Tse-tung used the army to curb it.

Parade Canceled

Although the news leaked only tardily, right after the crash Peking canceled its annual October parade and displays, including pictures of Mao, were taken down. Notably fewer of his famous quotations were cited in the press and recently the public hy force, lies at the very origin cult of Maoism has clearly been of the China-United States effort waning.

Mao, appearing very feeble, has been seen only once since mid-September-at the time of Emperor Haile Selassie's visit. When a Chinese delegation came to France last month, not a single member wore his customary Mao button or even once mentioned the Communist chief's name.

A China desk officer in the State Department learned that the Pentagon for budget reasons was planning to discontinue regular naval patrolling of the Taiwan Strait-a practice begun when President Truman interpalace, where Soviet "bugs" were posed the Seventh Fleet in 1950 during the Korean war.

Suspension of the Taiwan Strait patrol had long been one of the major "signals" suggested by to the American Embassy in a China analysts, along with trade and travel liberalization, to entice Peking into a serious dialogue. suspended temporarily by the Peking's main conc tions for improvement of relations were termination of United States "occupation" of Taiwan and the jected Nixon visit to Peking. Strait.

But the Pentagon and the White House hesitated, although the defense of Taiwan depended on the U.S. security treaty and the carriers and cruisers of the Seventh Flet, not on the two destroyers in the Taiwan Strait or the few thousand American logistical troops on the island.

Moreover, while Communist China had always refused to renounce the use of force to regain Taiwan-Washington's precondition for recognition-it had never acquired enough sea or airlift for an invasion. It hinted instead that the issue could be out preconditions—in effect giving Taiwan a lower priority. The American hope is that during Mr. resolved by peaceful means once Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, now 84, was gone.

In these circumstances, Secretary of State Rogers on Nov. 7, 1969, secretly cabled the American Embassies in Tokyo, Seoul and Taipel to notify those governments that the regular Taiwan Strait patrol would be discontinued for budget reasons on Nov. 15. Taipei complained bltterly in private

It was a propitious moment for the Nixon administration's yearlong effort to open talks with China. The Aviation Consumer Action Project-organized last spring by Ralph Nader-directed its suit against the Civil Aeronautics Board. But the real target of the action was the International Air Transport Association, known as IATA, whose secretly negotiated rate structures have almost invariably been approved by the CAB for the last 25 years.

The 70-page complaint described IATA as "an economically malignant cartel" that has fixed prices at unreasonably high levels stultifying competition and the natural growth of tourism largely for the benefit of inefficient foreign carriers.

Possibly Unconstitutional

The suit argued it is illegal and possibly unconstitutional for the CAB to approve IATA's rate agreements and to let U.S. airlines participate in them.

The secret negotiation of fares violates anti-irust principles and the open-hearing veguirements of administrative procedure, the ACAP charged. And to the extent that high fares restrict the traveling public's movements, it said, IATA fares also violate a con-stitutional "right to travel." The suit said that the Ameri-lateral negotiations on the fares for individual routes. Among the even if ACAP won its case and results, ACAP predicted, would be a strong consumer voice in international rate-making and fare reductions of up to 50 percent. R. Tenney Johnson, the CAB's general counsel, said he was "befuddled" by the suit. The courts have left little doubt, he insisted,

French Jet Pilot Killed

TOULON, France, Nov. 2 (Reuters).-A French Navy Crusader jet blew up shortly after takeoff near here today, killing its pilot. The cause of the accident was not immediately known, the CAB were forced to disapprove the IATA machinery, Mr. Johnson argued, the court's decision would have no practical effect on air fares. With or without the participa-tion of U.S. carriers, be said, IATA could agree upon a single transatlantic fare, for example, and expect the American competitors on the route-Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines—to meet lt.

If Pan Am and TWA sought to undercut it. Mr. Johnson continued, IATA members in Europe could threaten withdrawai of ianding rights for the American lines

But, Mr. Nader said in an interview today, the CAB's complete abandonment would open the way for a public investigation of international air rates, which, in turn, would invite congressionat par-ticipation and add to the pressures for price-cutting reforms.

Contract Reported Between Onassises

By Hebe Dorsey

PARIS, Nov. 2 (IHT) .- How can two people as different ae Aristotle Onassis and the former Jacqueline Kennedy get along? He loves ouzo and moussaka, she favors steak and milk. The answer is that they took no chances, according to Chris-tian Cafarakis, for 10 years chief steward on Onassis' yacht, Christina. In a book published recently by Hachette, "Le Fa-buleux Onassis" (The Fabulous Onassis), Mr. Cafarakis claims that their marriage contract in-cluded 170 clauses.

[In Washington, a spokesman for Mr. Onassis today described the report of a marriage contract as "ridiculous," United Press International said.

["Honestly, there's no such thing," said Mrs. Onassis' per-sonal secretary Nancy Tuckerman. "It's really quite unfair and

It is still in fine fettle and without need of directorial first aid. What its staging re-quires is a "live and let live" policy and director Jean-Laurent Cochet appreciates this. IEW YORK, Nov. 2 (IHT) -This is how The New York Times critics rate new on and Off-Broadway productions:

"On the Town,"- Leonard Bernstein's 1944 musical about three sailors on leave in wartime New York, is a "handsome and lavish resuscitation" that is "going to please those who remember its past rather than those who look to its future," Clive Barnes reports. By Betty Falkenberg COLOGNE, Germany (IHT).-From 1962 until last April East Germany's greatest poet, Peter Huchel, lived in Potsdam in isolation, unable to receive visitors from the West or to leave the country and unable to print his poems there.

while Huchel was denied publication at home, he had an avid, if limited and esoteric, circle of admirers in the West. He was awarded a number of West German literary prizes, though he was allowed to "accept" none. Glossop as Verdi's Falstaff -Too Good to Be Pathetic

By Henry Pleasants

LONDON, Nov. 2 (IHT).-A new Falstaff is always news, if only because it is a fat part, not lightly undertaken, nor lightly taken away. At the Met, in the half century between 1894 and 1944, there were only four: Maurel, Scotti, Tibbett and Warren.

Covent Garden's Zeffirelli production of 1961 was built around the admirable Falstaff of Geraint Evans, and remained pretty much his private property until Friday night, when Peter Glossop added a tremendous paunch to a naturally substantial frame and sang the role for the first time in England.

It's a tricky business for a singer with as much voice as Glossop has. Although Verdi gave his fat knight plenty to sing, one thinks of the part as primarily a vehicle for a great comedy actor; and it is difficult, maybe impossible, to sing it as well as Glossop does and still present a comical figure, least of all a pathetic one.

And Glossop, in London, has the additional handleap of being associated with such baritone thunderers as Tonio, Iago, Rigoletto. Renato and the Conte di Luna rather than with the basso bullo parts that paved Sir Geraint's course to Sir John. Not a subtle actor at best, Glossop tends, what with handlebar mustache and flamboyant attitudes and gestures, to suggest something closer to Col, Blimp. But he sings gloriously, including even artful excurstons into falsetto.

Also new to the cast was Delme Bryn-Jones as Ford. He didn't sing Glossop off the stage in Act II Scene I, as Tibbett sang Scotti that January 3 in 1925, but he stood his ground; and against Glossop that is a tidy vocal accomplishment. Scotti. in 1925, had been singing Falstaff for 30 years, and had little voice left-which, that one scene aside, is not an unbecoming infirmity in a Falstaff.

There was a new conductor, too, in Aldo Ceccato, who paced the performance admirably, and inspired the orchestra to a lively and delightful account of Verdi's orchestral masterpiece. And Regina Reznik was back in her favorite part of Mistress Quickly, hamming it up with relish and skill, and favoring us with baritonal chest tones the like of which I have not encountered since catching Tallulah Bankhead, a decade or so ago, in a road company performance of "Private Lives."

Poem to Him

After his removal from the magazine he was not able to publish his work. In 1966, Wolf Biermann, the East German, wrote a song dedicated to him, entitled "Take Hope":

"Don't let yourself get hard In these hard times, Those who are too hard, break ...

"We don't want to hush it up In these hushed-up times: The Green breaks out of the branches

Now, Biermann has been hushed up, too. He can no longer perform in public nor publish. Polltically, Huchel's position defies easy categorization. He chose East Germany after the war with open eyes. Yet he op-posed collectivization. At tha same time, he has been sharply critical of the West, often dem-onstrating a naïve bias, reflecting Eastern propaganda. His poem "Exile" expresses the two strivings within him, the one calling for change, the other clinging to roots: "Go with the wind.

Say the shadows. Summer lays the iron sickle On your heart. Go. before the stigma of fall

Burns into the maple leaf. "Stoy, says the stone. Dawn breaks where light and leaf Inhabit each other And the face Dies in the flame."

In "Der Garten des Theophrast," he writes:

Economist Sees Dow at 500 in 1972

NEW YORK. Nov. 2 (NYT) .- The Dow Jones industrial average could fall to the 500 level next year, according to Eliot Joneway, who is widely known in the United States as on author, lecturer and television-show guest.

The following ore excerpts from a recent conversation between Mr. Janeway. who prefers to coll himself a "political economist," and Variania G. Varian, of The New York Times stoff.

The talk took place before the 13.14 point plunge of the Dow average yesterday. That decline carried the Dow to its low for the year-$25.86.

QUESTION-Forecasting the stock market is a very tricky business. But you have scored some remarkable success in recent years. What do you regard as your outstanding forceasts? ANSWER-In 1965, I said the Dow Jones industriols would go to 1,000. They peaked out at 996 in February, 1966. My prediction for the bear-market bottom in 1970 was 625. Ageln I was a few points off. It bettomed out at 631. Q-Do you regard yourself as someone with a special crystel ball for the stock morket?

A-Let me make ono thing clear. I om not in the market guessing game. Nor am I a market technician.

Q-Then how do you regard your role? A-It's to diagnose the pragmatic upshot of each morket swing as to whether there's going to be a happy or on unhappy landing. My ole is to be an advisers' adviser.

Q--But you're had some forecast misses, too. Would you eite a recent example? A-I've been wrong over the last month, I thought there would be a last-chance rally, with the Dow moving up to 915 or 920. But a pre-Phase 2 rally never got off the ground. Q-What do you see on the market horizon at the present time? A-The stock market doesn't have a chance of coming back with the public leaving it. I see the Dow getting down to 500 in 1973 as a test level.

Q-Pardon me, Mr. Janeway. You said 500? A-Yes. And I'm not saying that 500 will be the low. I would want to see what political confidence is at that time. And whether the public is still leaving the morket and whether the gov-ernment is making ony progress towards working out of its busted condition. Q-But 500 on the Dow would put it 131 points below the bear-market bottom in Mar of last year. Why does the market have to fall that for in your estimation?

A-Because the Dow industrials will be driven down to o 6 percent yield basis before they can become ottractive again. They now yield only 3.7 percent. The departure of the amoteur investor out of industrials and into bonds has burt the stock market fatally. The druggist's wife in Dubuque is paying more and more ottention to yleids-and so are fiduciaries. Q-In your opinion, what should the average person do with his money today?

A-The number one objective is to hang onto It. I've been saying that inflation's going to get worse. The written an entire book on that sub-ject. It's called "What Shall I Do With My Money?

O-Would you mind explaining your position a bit further?

A-I've been bullish about the American economy until October of 1970. The General Motors strike was the sea change. What it really did was to precipitate a sympathy strike by ouriness buyers and a strike by consumers. I was builish about the world economy until April, 1971, when the Germans started the dollar crists, which I think is phony but which has resulted in the international monetary crisis which is real.

Q-What can get the economy moving again? A-I say there's only one hope. A reactivation of business buying. Inventory buying, people, buttons, string, eight down the line, -What is your opinion of Phase 2?

A-It's Operation Tanglefcot. An exercise in stimulative restraint. That's self-contradictory. The most important question about Phase 2 is how quickly Phase 3 will start.

Q-What's your estimate of how long Phase 2 last?

A-I think yoo'll begin to hear talk about Phase 3 around the end of November. But in Phase 3 you'll be creating intolerable conditions, with wages going up and the economy slackening.

Q-Mr. Janeway, your view of where the stock market is headed contrasts with that of many of the so-called emerts and analysis on Wail Street, as well as that of most economists. How do you account for this sharp divergence?

A-If computers were people, the economists and the others would not oe wreng. This is net a numbers game, it's a people game. The Wall Streeters are disoriented. What's really happening boils down to this: The money user is on strike.

Q-And the money user wort start spending until confidence is restored? A-Correct.

Q-Does this mean Mr. Nixon won't win in 19727

A-Nixon will get thoroughly Hooverized unless he can make Phase 3 work. He's got to be ready before next Easter.

Ripe for Recovery

A month ago, the Dow industrials were knocking on the door of 900. The steady pullback in recent weeks, brokers said, made stock prices ripe for at least e technical recovery. The only other advancing ses-offset by substantial increases in short-term credit needs, by a surge in consumer borrowing and by a large jump in the net credit demand of federally sponsored agencies.

Major Swings

On the supply side, Dr. Ronk's analysis showed a number of major swings. For example, foreign investors (chiefly foreign central banks) are expected to supply $19.3 billion to the U.S. capital markets next year, com-pared with only $1.5 billion in 1970. Similarly, thrift institutions-savings and loan associations, savings banks and credit unions -should supply $39,3 billion during 1971 (mostly to the mort-gage market) but this should drop next year.

The offsets to these contrac-tions, Dr. Ronk predicted, should come chiefly from business ($15.7 billion in 1971 and $25.1 billion in 1972) and government ($6.5 billion to $12.6 blillon) and a

A rare safety play is needed on the disgramed deal. However, two world-famous stars missed it when the deal was played in a recent U.S. tournam

At both tables South landed in five diamonds doubled, sithough by very different routes. In one case, as shown, East opened in third seat with one space and South made an overcall of two

For system reasons, West made a negative double instead of supporting spades, and South jumped to four clubs. When North showed a preference for diamonds, South went on to game, and was doubled by East.

West led the spade king and shifted to the diamond three. Dummy's six was covered by the eight and taken by the ten in the closed hand. The declarer led the club queen, which East took with the ace.

At this point, instead of playing a trump as the declarer ex-pected. East played the spade ace. The reason for this became clear when South ruffed the made lead and led a low club for a ruff, East over-ruffed, and South had to lose two more club tricks to West eventually, going

As South could not avoid losing two club tricks, he might have made his first club lead a low card. As it happens, this would have driven out the ace and saved a trick. In addition, if the club did not appear immedi-ately. South would have preserved the option of leading low in the next round of clubs if he judged that East had begun with a doubleton ace.

New Pro Hockey League Introduces 10 Franchises

By Gerald Eskenazi

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (NYT) .- In a meeting charged with rampant optimism, the fledgling World Hockey Association yesterday named 10 franchises that will begin play next year, and announced that the colorful WHA puck will be dropped for the first time on Oct. 14, 1972, in Miami.

There were repeated allusions to the National Hockey League, the most powerful professional hockey loop in the world, as representatives of the new entries predicted a successful rivairy.

The WHA's president, Gary Davidson, a lawyer from Santa Ana, Callf., said the league was looking for two more franchises -one from the Southeast and ooe from New England, Nine of the present franchises, he said, had already received dates in arenas for the 1972-73 season. But the one tcam that doesn't have n place to play could be critical to the leagues success. That is the New York entrant, led by Neil Shayne, a Woodmere, N.Y., lawyer.

The franchises, in addition to New York, are: Ohio (Dayton), Chicago (a Northwestern suburbl, Los Angeles, San Froncisco, Miami, St. Paul, Winnipeg, Manitoba, and Edmonton and Calgary in Alberta.

Colored Puck

Bill Hunter, one of Canada'a most prominent bockey personalities and the executive vice-president of the Edmonton franchise, said players would be acquired "from the junior ranks, from amateur and professional hockey, and from international teams."

In addition to using a colorful puck to replace "the drab one in existence today," the WHA plans to use a 10-minute sudden-death overtime period to prevent ties in regular-season games

But the most innovative aspects of the new league are in the area of the highly controversial players' contract. Thera will be no reserve or option clouses in the contracts.

An Added Attraction

"We want it to be attractive for players to join our league," explained Dovidson.

From time to time, there have been congressional hearings in the United States on the legality of the reserve clause, which binds a player to a team.

"We think we can succeed without such clauses," said Davidson. In the event a WHA player wished to leave his club and join another in the league, his new team would have to give the old team a drait eboice.

Davidson promised there would be no raiding of NHL players who are under long-term contracts. However, that wouldn't stop the WHA from trying to spirit away players who have only one-year deals with NHL clubs. The WHA plans to have o players' association and a pen-sion fund. As a further attraction, it will set up a three-man arbitration board to settle player-management salary impasses

Ben Hatzkin of Winnlpeg, a businessman and president of his elty's new club, sounded the WHA's warning cry when he said: "Let the NHL try to fight us. How can the NHL compete with us? We've already had 11 inches of snow on the ground. We're putting babies on ice skates. We're prepared to play bockey, Cruz. In a statement issued by the cemmission's chairman, Edwin B. Dooley. Napoles was charged with failing to 'ulfill a contract with the Canastota Boxing Club of Syracuse. Jones, 29, earned $45,000 last season but is presently under suspension and earning no salary after failing to come to terms this season.

The sult is primarily an attack on the NBA's reserve clause, which binds a player to a club until he is traded or retires. The suit also attacks the player draft system and the proposed merger of the NBA with the American Basketball Association.

Count Sees Red

By Russell Baker

Count Dracula, controversial military dictator of the Demo- claim his diplomatic immunity. cratic Republic of Terror del Luna, arrived in Washington Saturday night via his personal monogramed jet coffin.

As may be imagined, American officials are extremely scared. The general, as even the Pentagon concedes, is not the most savory dictator on Baker the free - world team. People with long memories etill recall his scandalous behavior at a state dinner at the White House during his official visit here in the 1940s.

In fact, it was that dinner that got the Washington police into the custom of keeping a close eye on social events at the White House.

Fortunately, General Count Dracula has not come fishing for a dinner invitation this time. He is here to find out how the United States proposes to finance him now that the Senate has killed the foreign-aid bill.

"If the usual payments are not forthcoming," he told a midnight press backgrounder at the Anacostia abattoir, "there will be no alternative for Terror del Luna except to go Communist."

"Is that a threat, general?" B newsman asked.

"Call me count," he replied. "so that we may understand each other better. Generals perhaps may make threats, but what a count says can be counted on."

"Counted on what, count?" the newsman persisted. "Can it be counted on the fingers of both hands?

The general, who is not accustomed to a free press, did not realize that this question was just the reporter's way of getting a story for the public.

In fact, the question made him so angry that he turned himself bat and flew into the into B streets of downtown Washington looking for somebody to bite. There he was mugged-or "webbed," to use the correct police term for a bat mugging-

WASHINGTON. - General and almost raped before he could turn himself into a general and General Count Dracula's irritation with Washington has sent a tremor through the Pentagon and the State Department, as well as the newspaper columnists of Washington, for Terror del Luna is the country that anchors the south-by-southeast flank of the B.I.M.B.O. mutual defense line against Communism's design to hreak into the strategic Lunatic Archipelago.

Both the Pentagon and the State Department knew that if Terror del Luna abandons the free-world team, Washington newspaper columnists will need something new to write about the BI.M.B.O. defense pact, and this will require everybody to think. Not surprisingly then, people at Washington's highest thinking levels now believe it essential to maintain the situation on BI.M.B.O.'s south-by-southeastern flank exactly as it has always been since 1903, when Major Count Dracula overthrew the democratic government there in order to evert a Communist take-over.

Shortly after assuming power, the major promised that he would return Terror del Luna to democratic rule just as soon as he was promoted to lieutenant colo-

By that time, however, the population had declined so precipitously that democracy was no longer possible. As Lieutenant Colonel Count Dracula told the American ambassador in 1919, democracy meant majority rule, and since the majority of the population was dead, he had no alternative but to continue the dictatorship until he could earn his sliver eagles. Now, however, with the Senate'e vote threatening an end to the entire foreign-aid program, the free world'e safe anchor on the south-by-southeast flank of BIM.B.O. is threatened. Without U.S. dollars, General Count Dracula will be unable to buy the fantastically expensive new strategic peopleware he needs to maintain Terror del Luna's population at a nourishing level over the coming year.

Contributions are desperately needed. Mail your people, parcel post, to the State Department now, while there is still time.

Uncle Sam's Shopping List

sumers."

By Carole Shifrin WASHINGTON (WP).-Uncle

Sam uses Bab-O in his kitchen, Sani-Flush in his bathroom, and Commander's sheets in his bedroom This glimpse into the federal government's huying habits was provided by a long-awaited list of brand-name consumer products it buys. The list of nearly 350 items purchased and tested for government use was made available to the public last week by the General Services Administration, the government's civilian buyer.

The 44-page list includes such relatively in expensive items as Scripto mechanical pencils and Ray-O-Vac flashlight batteries as well as majorexpense appliances such as air conditioners and clothes washers and dryers. Specific model numbers are listed for each.

Free

It is svaileble free from the 27 federal information centers located in metropolitan areas throughout the country or by writing to Consumer Product Information, Washington, D.C. 20407 The government has long been urged to make available the information it acquires through its own buying and testing. The government resisted, claiming that it wouldn't be fair and that very often the products it huys and tests do not correspond to items the consumer could find in the market-place. But last year, President Nixon said that such information should be made manner that is useful to conchildren. In making the list svailable last week, GSA Administrator Robert L. Kunzig cautioned that the listing of a hrand name did not constitute an "endorsement."

"Nor does it imply that other manufacturers do not have products of equal or better quality," he said.

He pointed out that some manufacturers may not even hid on a contract while others are unsuccessful in the bidding process because of factors other than product quality, such as price. In addition, the government tests only the products of successful bidders so that products from manufacturers who chose not to bid or who lost out in the process might be as good or better than those the government did buy.

"We are anxious to share what information we have, but as we have repeatedly stressed. we don't have the competitive brand test data that some people think we have," Mr. Kunzig said.

Nevertheless, all the items hought hy the government are tested prior to acceptance to assure that they meet government specifications, presumably high standards.

Needs

Mr. Kunzig noted that, in most cases, the needs of the government and the consumer would be the same, although the former might not care about some things a consumer available to the public "in a might be more interested in, such as color, convenience of installation, and safety around

According to the listing of government-sought products, people who brush their teeth courtesy of Uncle Sam use Pepsodent. They wash their hands with Sunlight scap (made by Lever Brothers) or Borax and use Sheffield safety razors and hlades. If cut shaving, there are adhesive and gauze bandage by White Cross

Some of the brands used by the government are not well known, such as K-Det laundry detergent chlorine bleach dishwasher detergent, and detergent for cleaning painted surfaces (supplied by Washington Chemical Sales of California) and Solventol No. 201 dishwasher detergent (supplied hy Solventol Chemical Products Co.).

Other cleaning products used by the government include Sparkler HO detergent for cleaning tile and floors supplied by Solventol and GBS toilet bowl cleaner from Jones-Hamilton Co. The government is provided with three different kinds of scouring pads: Golden Fleece Scour Cloths, Scotch-Brite Brand No. 96, and Handy Mandy Pot Cleaners. For polishing wood or metal furnitures. there are Amazon Wax and Mirid R-32 Wax, and Uni-Pol UP-10 oil. For polishing floors, there is Tuffsheen floor wax. For polishing shoes, there is Cadet shoe polish.

For most of its brooms and brushes, the government buys "Skilcraft" Quality Blind-Made Products outright-not on a competitive-bid basis-from several centers for the blind. Uncle Sam also purchases "Skilcraft" door mats and froning board oads and covers.

The government's major appliance purchases are all wellknown brand names. It buys two General Electric Co. models and 14 different Fedders Corp. window air conditioners; Proctor-Silex irons; and GE and Whiripool washing machines and dryers. Uocle Sam has been huying Wren alarm clocks, Sun-beam wall clocks, Hamilton wrist watches, and a variety of Mario household lamps.

Floors

For its floors, the government buys Karastan-Madreau heavy duty acrylic and Karastan-Brieau nylon rugs made by Karastan Rug Mills of Eden, N. C.: Apollo wool and - nylon rugs made by Seamloc: Loma-Loom Carpet Co. of Sanford, Maine; Town and Terrace polypropylene carpet for indooroutdoor use, made by Ozite Corp. of Anaheim, Calif.; and federal sponge or foam rubber carpet cushion made by Allen Industries of Compton, Calif. Also on the list is floor tile made by Kentile Floors, GAF Corp. Armstrong Cork.Co., and American Biltrite Rubber, and rolled linoleum made by Armstrong.

Kunzig said the listings were being put out on a "trial basis" and that the government would be guided by the comments received from consumers and business about whether the information is 'helpful and sppropriate." Present plans call for updating the list every three months.
